Brief Industrial Profile of BIJAPUR District

General Characteristics of the District

Bijapur District has an area of 10541 square kilometres, and a population of 1,806,918 (2001 census), an increase of 17.63% since the 1991 census. It consists 5.49% of Karnataka state area. The administrative headquarters and chief town is Bijapur. Farming and agriculture related business is the main occupation for many people in the district. Of the total geographical area of 10,530 square kilometers, 7,760 square kilometers is available for cultivation which is 74% of the total area, while areas under forest account for only 0.19% of the total area. Only 17.3% of the net cultivable area is irrigated and the balance 82.7% of the area has to depend on the monsoon.

1.1 Location & Geographical Area. It is bounded on the east by Gulbarga district, on the southeast by Raichur District on the south and southwest by Bagalkot District, and on the west by Belgaum District and by the Maharashtra of Sangli on the northwest and Sholapur on the north, Sangli on the north-west. It lies between 15 x 50 and 17 x 28 North Latitude and 74 x 54 and 76 x 28 East Longitude.

1.2 Topography . Geographically, the district lies in the tract of the Deccan Plateau The lands of the district can be broadly divided into three zones: the northern belt consisting of the northern parts of Bijapur Taluks of Indi and Sindagi; the central belt consisting of Bijapur city; the southern belt consisting of the rich alluvial plains of the Krishna Rivers parted from the central belt by a stretch of barren Trap. The northern belt is a succession of low rolling uplands without much vegetation, gently rounded and falling into intermediate narrow valleys. The upland soil being shallow, the villagers are generally confined to the banks of the streams and are far away from one another.
