Brief Industrial Profile of Chennai District

1. General Characteristics of the District

Chennai district is one of the important historical districts of the Tamilnadu. Chennai is the capital city of the State, besides being an important district. The district city is one of the metropolis of India and serves as the gateway of the culture of South India.

There are different versions about the name of this once sleepy coastal village. When the British landed here in 1639 A.D. it was said to be part of the empire of the Raja of Chandragiri. The British named it Chennapattinam, after they acquired it from Chennappa Nayakar. Gradually, it became Chennai. The first instance of the use of the name Chennai is said to be in the Vestiges of Old Chennai, the sale deed of August 1639 to Francis Day, an agent for the British. There it has been referred to as Chennaipatnam.

1.1 Location & Geographical Area

The area of Chennai district is 174 sq.kms as against 130058 sq.kms for the State. The entire area of the District has been classified as urban.

Chennai is situated on the north-east end of Tamil Nadu on the coast of Bay of Bengal. It lies between 12° 9' and 13° 9' of the northern latitude and 80° 12' and 80° 19' of the southern longitude on a 'sandy shelving breaker swept beach'. It stretches nearly 25.60 kms, along the Bay coast from Thiruvannamiyur in the south to Thiruvottiyur in the north and runs inland in a rugged semi-circular fashion. It is bounded on the east by the Bay of Bengal and on the remaining three sides by Kanchipuram and Thiruvallur Districts.

1.2 Topography

Chennai is a low-lying area and the land surface is almost flat like a pancake. The even topography of the land throughout the district renders sub-divisions into natural regions rather difficult. It rises slightly as the distance from the sea-shore increases but the average elevation of the city is not more than 22' above mean sea-level, while most of the localities are just at sea-level and drainage in such areas remains a serious problem.

The city is intersected by two streams, viz, Coovam river and the Adyar. The Coovam river runs through the heart of the city and enters the sea. The Adyar runs through the south part of the city and enters the sea.

The Buckingham canal which runs through the states of Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh is a navigation canal. This canal runs almost parallel to the Coromandal coast within the limits of 5 kms. from the coast. It joins up a series of natural backwaters and connects all the coastal districts from Guntur to Cuddalore.

1.3 Availability of Minerals

The district has no mineral resources.

1.4 Forest

The area under reserve forest is 300 hector in which a national park has been formed. Chennai city today is devoid of forest areas but can still be proud of some of the well maintained green belts found in the Peoples park, the Napier park, the Horticulture-gardens, my Lady's park, Children's park, Guindy, Snake park, Nehru park, Nageswara Rao park, Independence park, Anna square park, the Raj Bhavan, the Theosophical Society Campus and a number of bungalows and newly developed colonies where provisions of public parks, etc., have been provide.

1.5 Administrative set up

Chennai city is governed by the Corporation of Chennai erstwhile, Corporation of Madras, established in 1688. it consists of 155 councilors who represents 155 wards and are directly elected by the residents of the city.

The area of jurisdiction of the Corporation of Chennai expanded to 426 sq.kms from 174 sq.kms in 2011 and the population increased to 5.6 million from 4.5 million. The expanded Chennai Corporation is divided into three regions – North, South and Central, with each of three regions being headed by an IAS officer.

The metropolitan region of Chennai covers 5 parliamentary constituencies and 28 members of the Legislative Assembly and many suburbs that are part of Kanchipuram and Thiruvallur districts. The larger suburbs are governed by town municipalities and the smaller once are governed by town councils called panchayats.

The Chennai Metropolitan Development Authority (CMDA) has drafted a Second Master Plan that aims to develop satellite townships around the city. Contiguous satellite towns include Mahabalipuram to the south, Chengalpattu and Maraimalai Nagar to the southwest, and Kanchipuram town, Sriperumpudur, Tiruvallur and Arakkonam to the west.

IT & ITES parks in Chennai.

The 4th largest city in India, Chennai is the major trade centre. Traditionally, it is a hub of economic, geographic and political activities in South India. In the last decade, due to the increased it activities in the city, real estate business booming and attaining a significant place on national and international level. Chennai ranks 4th in the highest number of employees in India's IT & ITES sector. Chennai is the 4th in highest number of higher education Institutes. Chennai has the largest resource pool in the form of graduating students suitable for this sector

Since 2000, old Mahabalipuram road (OMR) is also known as the IT corridor of Chennai. Till 2006, IT development in this micro market was mainly driven by government nodal agencies – TIDCO, ELCOT and SIPCOT. However, post 2006 major private players including RMZ, Shapoorji & Pallonji, Tata Realty and others have developed IT parks along this road.

A study published final points as on 2006 and they are as follows:

Software products	Electronics items	Marine products

3.4.3 Growth Trends:

There were major developments in infrastructural activities in the district in recent past, triggering the growth of the industrial sector also with heavy investment in large and medium scale of industries. Two ways of transportation helps the SMEs to export to all parts of the world in the city viz., Airways and sea port.

The city is served by two major ports, Chennai Port, one of the largest artificial ports in India, and Ennore port. The Chennai port is the largest in Bay of Bengal, with an annual cargo tonnage of 61.46 million (2010–2011), and second busiest container hub in India, with an annual container volume of 1.523 million TEUs (2010–2011). The port handles transportation of automobiles, motorcycles and general industrial cargo, The Ennore Port with an annual cargo tonnage of 11.01 million (2010–2011) handles cargo such as coal, ore and other bulk and rock mineral products.

Such infrastructure facilities helps sustained development of Industry and service sector in the district.

Sound industrial growth in following fields:

1. Readymade Garments
2. Software
3. Electronic products
4. Automobiles
5. Auto components

3.4.4 Vendorisation/ Ancillarisation of the Industry:

The Large Scale/ Medium Units are located around the sub-urban area of Chennai district viz. Hyundai, Nokia, L& T, Automobile units, Milk Foods etc. procure the services of local Micro & Small Scale Units. The more investment in large sector shall provide more opportunities for vendorisation in SMEs..

1. Fabrication
2. Electronic components

3.5 Service Enterprises:

3.5.1 Existing Service Sector:

The service industry of Chennai mainly includes repair & servicing of motor vehicles like four wheelers, two wheelers, Computer servicing, Spa for unisex, Event management, Videography, Photography, Tailoring / Fashion Designing, Embroidery work, Creech, Preschool care centers, etc.,
