BRIEF INDUSTRIAL PROFILE OF TIKAMGARH DISTRICT

1. General Characteristics of the District

Tikamgarh district lies in the northern part of Madhya Pradesh. The early history of Tikamgarh district is however not chronicled, though as suggested by the numerous ruins of buildings and other old remains lies scattered at various places, viz Orchha, Garh Kudar, Prithvipur, Barana, Lidhaura, Digora, Mohangarg, Baldeogarh and Tikamgarh, it must be having a glorious past. The district was the part of vast empires successively ruled by the Mauryas, the Sungas and the imperial Guptas. It was in the first quarter of ninth century A.D., that Mannuka founded a new dynasty the Chandella dynasty in this area. Tikamgarh alongwith Khajuraho and Mahoba formed part of extensive Chandella Kingdom. The Khangras also held this region specially around Garh Kunder. The rising power of Bundelas in this region resulted into the downfall of the Khangras. The Orchha records trace the descent of the Bundela Kingdom of Orchha from Garh Kudar chiefs of Benaras Hemkaran, also known as Pancham Bundela.

1.1 Location & Geographical Area.

Tikamgarh District is located in the northern part of Madhya Pradesh. It forms the north-western part of Sagar District. It lies on the Bundelkhand Plateau between the Jamni, a tributary of Betwa and Dhasan rivers. It extends between the latitude 24 degree 26 minute and 25 degree 34 minute N and between 78 degree 26 minute and 79 degree 21 minute Longitudes. The shape of district is triangular. The northern margin is very irregular. The maximum length of the district is about 119 Km. From North to South and width about 80 Km. Tikamgarh District is bounded by Chhatarpur district to east, Lalitpur district Uttar Pradesh to West, Jhansi to North and Sagar to South. The western and Eastern boundaries are formed by two big rivers.

1.2 Topography

The Tikamgarh district is geographically situated at the north of the State of Madhya Pradesh. The elevation of Tikamgarh is 426.7 m above mean sea level. The northern part of the district is at a height of 200 meters from the mean sea-level while the southern part is at a height of 300 meters. It lies in the level plane which forms the Betwa-Dhasan Doab. The geology is characterized by what is known as the Bundelkhand Gneiss in geological terms. It is a hard grayish pink grantiodal rock of simple composition traversed by conspicuous quartz fields, which form an integral part of this formation. These rocks are found in the forms of sheets and dykes across the district, thus defining the topography of the district. The area is gently sloping from south towards north. Main products of these are the building

1.4 Forest:

Tikamgarh district has a southern tropical dry deciduous type of forest. About 6% of the total land is covered by forest. Earlier the area comprised dense forests but due to a rising demand for wood and agriculture expansion, the level of deforestation increased. A timber forest lies near Orchha town and around Betwa and Jamuni rivers. The non timber forest of the district consists of Tendu, Seja, Dhawa, Gunja Salai, Mahuwa, Baheda, Palash, Amla, Bel and Bamboo. In the non-timber forest, the medicinal plants have the potential to be a major source of livelihood for the people residing near forest area. But due to the absence of a proper market strategy, the lack of infrastructure for transportation and awareness, this is not possible at present.

1.5 Administrative Set Up.

Tikamgarh district is divided into six tehsils grouped into three sub divisions of Tikamgarh, Niwari and Jatara. The Tikamgarh sub division comprises Tikamgarh and Baldeogarh tehsils, Niwari and Prithvipur tehsil form Niwari sub division whereas Jatara sub division comprises of Jatara and Palera Tehsil. There are six development blocks namely Tikamgarh, Jatara, Baldeogarh, Palera, Niwari and Prithvipur.
