Brief Industrial Profile of Sirsa District

1. General Characteristics of the District

There are a number of legends about the origin of the name of the town. As mentioned earlier, its ancient name was Sairishaka and from that it seems to have been corrupted to Sirsa. According to local tradition, an unknown king named Saras founded the town in 7th century A.D. and built a fort. The material remains of an ancient fort can still be seen in the South-East of the present town. It is about 5 kilometers in circuit. According to another tradition, the name has its origin from the sacred river Sarasvati which once flowed near it. During medieval period, the town was known as Sarsuti. It has been mentioned as Sarsuti by a number of medieval historians. The derivation of name Sirsa, is also attributed to the abundance of siris trees [Albizia lebbok (Benth)] in the neighborhood of Sirsa which seems quite plausible for it finds some corroboration also in Panini and his commentator. In ancient period, Sirsa was also known as Sirsapattan.

History of the District as an Administrative Unit

Sirsa was in the administrative division of Hisar Feroza during Firuz Shah's reign. In the time of Akbar, Sirsa was one of the dasturs of Hisar Feroza Sarkar and much of its area lying in the present Sirsa district was covered by Mahals of Fatehabad, Bhattu, Bhangiwal (Darba), Sirsa, Bhatner (or Hanumangarh, Rajasthan) and Paniyana (Rajasthan). With the decline of the Mughal Empire, the tract comprising Sirsa district came under the control of Marathas. The whole of Delhi Territory of which the tract formed part was ceded by the Marathas to the British in 1810. Sirsa was part of the outlying district of Delhi territory under the charge of an Assistant to the Resident. In 1819, the Delhi territory was divided into three districts - the Central which included Delhi, The Southern including Rewari, and the North-Western including Panipat, Hansi, Hisar, Sirsa and Rohta. In 1820, the latter was again sub-divided into Northern and Western and Sirsa alongwith Hansi, Hisar and Bhiwani formed Western district (Haryana district and later known Hisar district).

The Sirsa district which comprised three tehsils of Sirsa, Dabwali and Fazilka was abolished in 1884 and Sirsa tehsil (consisting of 199 Villages) and 126 villages of Dabwali tehsil formed one tahsil and the same was merged in the Hisar district and the rest of the portion was transferred to the Firozpur district (Punjab). There was no change till the Independence of the country except that a village was transferred from Sirsa tahsil to the then state of Bikaner in 1906. The entire area of the district was included in the new state of Haryana on November 1, 1966. In 1968, Sirsa tehsil was bifurcated into Sirsa and Dabwali tehsils. In 1974, three villages of Dabwali tahsil were transferred to Sirsa tehsil.

On September 1, 1975, Sirsa and Dabwali tehsils were constituted into a separate Sirsa district with headquarters at Sirsa.

Birds

Game Birds :

A large number of game birds, some of them residential or found throughout the year while others are winter visitors. Various types of ducks and geese such as eastern Graylag Goose, Barheaded Goose, Brahminy Duck, Common Shelduck, Pintail, Common Teal, Mallard, Gadwall, Wigeon Bluewinged Teal, Shoveller, common Pochard, Ferruginous Duck and Tufted Duck can be seen at the Ghagar and tanks during winter. Some other ducks such as Comb Duck, Cotton Teal, Spot bill Duck, Tree duck are found throughout the year at suitable habitat. Dabchick is also a residential bird. Other Game Birds like partridges and quails are also common.

Sand grouse has been noted as Residential (Indian Sand grouse) as well as visitor birds. Bangal Green Pigeon is found in vicinity of villages chiefly on Ficus trees and Blue Rock Pigeon occurs in almost all the villages. Western Turtle Dove is a winter visitor whereas some other Doves are generally found in cultivated fields.

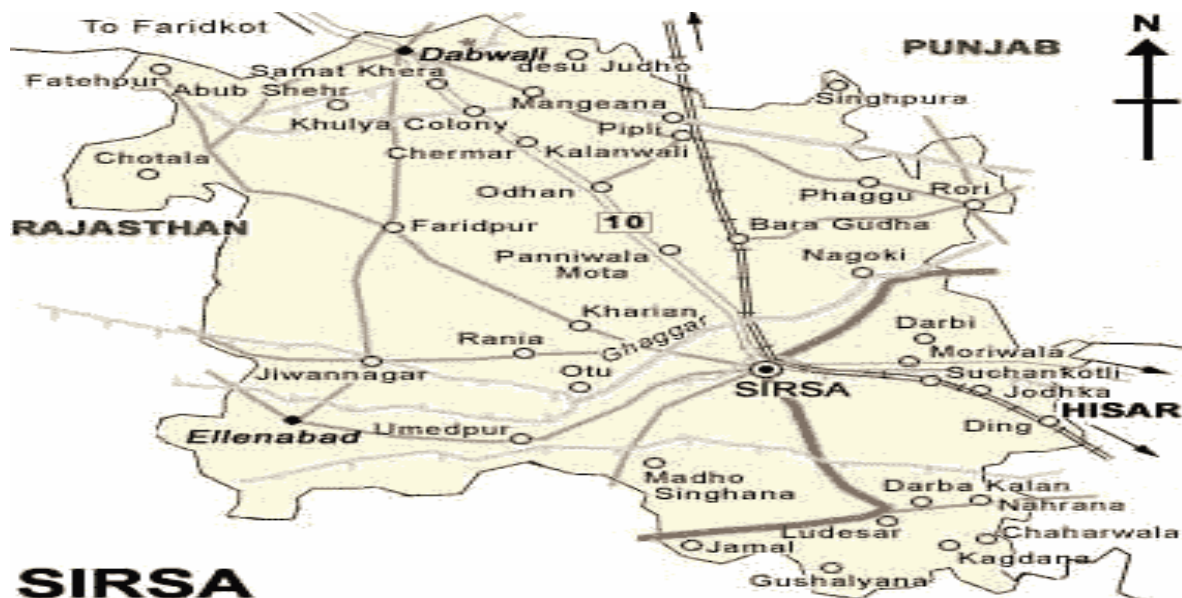

Birds of Economic Importance :

Scavengers like Pariah Kite, Brahminy Kite, White backed Vulture, King Vulture, Tawny Eagle, Greater Spotted Eagle, White Eyed Buzzard Eagle, House Crow and Indian Jungle Crow etc., keep the district cleared of dead animals by feeding on them. Scavenger Vulture besides feeding on dead animals, consumes a large quantity of human excreta. Predators like black winged Kite, Indian shikra, laggar Falcon, Shahin Falcon, Redheaded Merlin and Kestrel are residential birds of the district. Others like Booted Hawk Eagle, Eastern Steppe Eagle, Pale Harrier etc visit the district in winter. These along with Spotted owl and Eagle owl keep a check on the population of not only redent pests but also various insect pests by eating them. The challenge of insect pests is also met with the few insect eating birds, both resident and migratory.

1.1 Location & Geographical Area.

It is bounded by the districts of Faridkot and Bathinda of Punjab in the north and north east, Ganga Nagar district of Rajasthan in the west and south and Hisar district in the east. Thus it touches the interstate boundaries on three sides and is connected with its own state only in the eastern side.

1.2 Topography

The district lies between 29 14 and 30 0 north latitude and 74 29 and 75 18 east longitudes, forming the extreme west corner of Haryana. It is bounded by the districts of Faridkot and Bathinda of Punjab in the north and north east, Ganga Nagar district of Rajasthan in the west and south and Hissar district in the east. Thus it touches the interstate boundaries on three sides and is connected with its own state only in the eastern side. The terrain of Sirsa district may be broadly classified from north to south into three major types i.e. Haryana Plain, alluvial bed of Ghaggar or Nali and Sand dune tract. The characteristics of these three are briefly described below :

Haryana Plain - The Haryana Plain is a vast surface of flat to rolling terrain and extends southward to the northern boundary of the alluvial bed of the Ghaggar. It covers over 65 percent of the area of the District. The elevation of the surface from east to west varies from 190 to 210 meters above the mean sea level. The most diagnostic feature of the Haryana Plain is the presence of palaeo channels which set the occurrence of sand dunes in this terrain unit apart from those in the dune tract. The plain is traversed by numerous dune complexes and shifting sands.

Alluvial bed of Ghaggar - Nali : A clayey surface of almost flat, featureless plain bordered in the north and west by the Haryana Plain and in the south along the sound dune tract, is a manifestation of the misfit nature of the present day Ghaggar. Waterlogging is a serious problem in many parts of this flat surface of impervious clay of great thickness. At places, swamps support a high density of tall grass.

Sand dune tract - Third tract covers the southernmost part of the district. The area is northward extension of the sand dunes of Hisar District and Ganganagar District of Rajasthan. The dunes are locally called tibbas. Tibbas around Ellenabad are 9 Meters high; Naugaza Tibba at the border of Rajasthan is 17 Meters high; Tikonta tibba is some 14 Meters high and one south of Shahpuria is 13 Meters high. All tibbas are broad based transverse ridges, some more than 3 Kilometers long without a break. Linear to complex ridges, short to fairly long but narrow at the crests, and generally 2 to 5 Meters high are also present throughout the sandy stretch of the land.

CLIMATE:

The climate of this district is characterized by its dryness and extremes of temperature and scanty rainfall. The year may be divided into four seasons. The cold season from November to March is followed by the Summer season which lasts upto the end of June. The period from July to about the middle of September and from the middle of September to October constitute the south west monsoon and post-monsoon seasons respectively.

RAINFALL :

Records of rainfall in the district are available for Sirsa only for sufficiently long periods. The average annual rainfall in the district is 32-53 mm. The rainfall in the district increases generally from west to east. About 72 percent of the annual normal rainfall in the district is received during the short south east monsoon period, July to September, July and August being the rainiest months. There is significant amount of rainfall in the month of June, mostly in the form of thunder showers. In the rest of the year, there is a very little rainfall.

TEMPERATURE –

There is no meteorological observatory in the district, so the mean meteorological conditions prevailing at Ganga Nagar and Hisar may be taken as representative of those prevailing in the district as general. There is a rapid increase of temperature after February. The mean daily maximum temperature during May and June which is the hottest period varies from 41.5 °C to 46.7 °C. On individual days the maximum temperature during the summer season may rise upto about 49 °C. With the advance of the Monsoon into the district, by about the end of June, there is appreciably drop in the day temperature and the weather becomes cooler during the day time, but the nights are warmer than those during the summer season. With the added moisture in the monsoon air, the nights are often uncomfortable. The decrease in temperature is rapid after October and drop in temperature after nightfall is particularly trying. January is generally the coldest month with the mean daily maximum at 21.1 °C and the mean daily minimum at 5.1 °C.

HUMIDITY

Relative humidity in the mornings is generally high during the monsoon season and during the period December to February, it is usually 70 percent or more. Humidity is comparatively less during the rest of the year, the driest part being the summer season with the relative humidity being about 30 percent in the afternoons.

AGRICULTURE

Sirsa District was created out of South-Western part of District Hisar in the year 1975. It is surrounded by Punjab, Rajasthan and District Fatehabad of Haryana State. Only a seasonal river Ghaggar is flowing through central part of the district and Bhakra Canal is the only source of irrigation.

The climate of the district is of tropical type with intensive hot summer and cool winter with a temperature of 47 Degree Centigrade in June and 3 Degree Centigrade in Decembar and January. The average rainfall of the district is 200 to 300 mm out of which 80% precipitation is received from July to September.

80% of the inhabitants are villagers and their main occupation is Agriculture. The main cropping pattern is two crop system. Paddy, Cotton and Bajra crops are grown in Kharif whereas Wheat, Gram, Barley and Rape-mustard in Rabi season. Cotton and Rabi oilseeds are two main cash crops. Now, some farmers are shifting from their traditional cropping system to Horticulture and Flowericulture. Area under garden and flowericulture is 1400 and 10 Hectares respectively. The production of green and dry fodder is 20 Lacs and 10 Lacs Tonnes respectively.

From agriculture point of view, District Sirsa comprises of three agricultural Sub-divisions namely Sirsa, Dabwali and Ellenabad. Total geographical area of the district is 4.27 Lac Hectares which is spread oven in 326 villages. Total cultivable area of the District is 4.3 Lacs Hectares.

Agricultural Activities :

The Agriculture Department is primarily responsible for the dissemination of latest technical know-how to the farming community and thereby pushing up the technical know-how to the farming community and thereby pushing up the agricultural production in the state. It also ensures timely supply of quality inputs like Seeds, Fertilizers, Pesticides/ Weedicides etc., both through Public and Private sectors. The Department also monitors the potential and utilisation of ground water resources. Soil conservation and better water management are other important activities of the Department. In addition, the Department also performs some regulatory functions relating to marketing and storage of agricultural produce and quality control of agricultural inputs. Integrated Pest Management Programme of Cotton, Paddy, Bajra, Wheat and Gram, and also, biological control of pests and installation of Sprinkler Sets to improve the irrigation efficiency in undulated areas. Apart from these activities, Department of Agriculture also works out fairly reliable estimates of agricultural production in the State.

1.3 Availability of Minerals.

No Minerals are available in Sirsa District

1.4 FOREST

Sirsa District, bounded by Punjab in North and East and by Rajasthan in South and West lies between 29° 13' to 30° North latitude and between 74° 15' to 75°30' East longitude. The natural forest of Sirsa District is classified as Northern Tropical Thorn Forest". The natural trees species available in this area are Shisham (Tali) (Dalbergiasisoo), Jand (Prosopis cineraria), Beri (Zizyphus mauritiana), Jaal (Salvadora oleoides), Reru (Acacia lucophloea), Kair (Capparis decidua), Neem (Azadirachta indica), Kikar (Babool) (Acacia nilotica), Lasura (Cordia dichotoma), Pipal (Ficus religiora) etc.

The main species planted and raised by forest Deptt. are Shisham, Kikar, Eucalyptus hybrid, Neem, Bakain, Acacia tortilis (Israeli Kikar), Prosopis juliflora (Vilayati Kikar), Siris etc. Most of the Eucalyptus and Shisham is planted along the canals where moisture level in soil is fairly high and Kikar is planted along roads where moisture level is low and biotic pressure (grazing and browsing by cattle) is very high.

Shisham is one of the most valuable timber species of Haryana and Sirsa has the rare distinction to claim that it has the maximum number of Shisham trees in Haryana. In the sixties and seventies, when canals were being laid, Shisham, plants were planted and now these plants have grown as big beautiful trees. The primary alluvial soil of this area along with long summer growth season is very suitable for Shisham. Increased use of nitrogenous fertilizers like Urea, DAP etc. in agriculture has caused untimely death of many young and old Shisham trees by increased incidence of tree fungi like Genoderma Lucidum (root rot), Fuserium etc. Sirsa district has most of the forest areas along the strips of railway lines, roads, canals, drains and flood protection bunds. Area under each category is as follows:-

Strip Forest along	Area (Hectare)
Railway Lines	557 Ha.
Roads	2037 Ha.
Canals and Drains	2006 Ha
Bunds	150 Ha.
Total	4740 Ha

A few more archaeological sites are described below :-

Arnian wali (Tehsil Sirsa) : It is situated 8 KMs South of Sirsa on Sirsa Bhadra Road. A mound measuring nearly 4 Acres and approximately 10 Feet high lies 400 Meters North of the village. It has yielded fragments of pottery of early history and medieval times.

Sikander Pur (Tehsil Sirsa) : Located about 12 KMs East of Sirsa, the village is approached by a link Road from Sirsa - Fatehabad Road. The site, which has two mounds, ONE KM apart, is located about 1.6 KMs North - East of the villages and is nearly 30 Feet high. Heavy Stone Slabs and a sculpture of Indra, specimens of a temple of early medieval times were found from the site. A sculpture of an "Ekmukha Linga" of Shiva belonging to early medieval times has also been discovered. The specimen represents Shiva both in his human as well as Phallic form. A Sculpture of Indra recovered from the site is fine specimen representing two armed Indra as Dikpala. Another sculpture of Indra with his consord belonging to the early medieval times has also been found. The site has also yielded Rang Mahal and medieval wares.

Suchan (Tehsil Sirsa) : Located about 16 KMs East of Sirsa, the site has yielded fragments of Pottery of Rang Mahal and early medieval wares.

Mangiana (Tehsil Dabwali) : It is located about 13 KMs East of Dabwali on Kalanwali-Dabwali Road. The mount, located about a KM West of the village, is 15 Feet high. It has yielded fragments of early historic and medieval wares.

3. INDUSTRIAL SCENERIO OF SIRSA

The District Sirsa which was the part of Hisar Distt. has been converted as District Sirsa w.e.f. 26.09.1975. It is located in the western part of Haryana. It is bounded by the State of Punjab in the north and east, state of Rajasthan in the south and west by the District Hisar. The total area of District is 4276 Sq. K.M. having the total population 11, 11,000 as per 2001 census. Sirsa city is away from the Delhi about 250 K.M. on the National High way No.10. The climate of the district is extreme and aride. It is very hot in summer and cold in winter. The rainfall in the district is uncertain and scanty. The Ghaghar is the only river which has abundant water during the rainy season, out of total area about 90% area is under cultivation, District Sirsa is known as “the cotton belt of Haryana”. There are many type of industries in the district which are engaged in the manufacturing of various items such as Seed Processing, Wrapping Papers, Milk Chilling, Rice Shelling, Chemicals, Iron and Steel Fabrication, Agriculture Implements, Leather Good, Hard and Straw Board etc. The main resource of the district is agro products. The more details about the existing industries which are registered with the District Industries Centre, Sirsa (Industries Department) are given as under (working units upto 31.3.2003):-

FOOD PARK:

A Food Park is being set up at the land of villages i.e. Teja Khera, Asha Khera and Chautala on the Dabwali-Sangria road. The total are of this land is about 113 acres. This Food Park is also developed by the HSIDC to set up the food processing units
