EXECUTIVE SUMMERY

Assam is endowed with vast natural resources like oil, mineral, forest etc. It is also famous for tea and silk industry. There are also a good number of large and medium scale industries including four oil Refineries in the public sector, which can sustain large number of small scale vendors. However, the growth of industries particularly in the MSME sector has not taken place to the desired extent despite availability of resources for industrial exploitation.

The major roadblock for rapid industrialization is found to be more than one. The state has insufficient infrastructural facilities, deficient power generation which require immediate remedial measures. The credit – deposit ratio is also much below the All India average.

The Industrial policy of Assam, 2008 aims to develop and promote ecologically complaint industries based on the core strengths of the state of Assam. The new policy identifies the following key potential areas:

1. Multi Cropping in Agriculture
2. Tea
3. Plywood
4. Agar Wood Oil
5. Silk
6. Bamboo
7. Horticulture
8. Food Processing
9. Fresh water Processing
10. Other Potential areas include Oil, Gas, Coal and Minerals like Limestone, China Clay, Glass Sand, Iron ore, Silimanite and Granite
11. Tourism

The Industrial and Investment Policy Assam 2014 has identified the following thrust areas

- Food processing and Agro based Industries
- Mineral based industries

- Bamboo based industries
- Extraction and Value Addition of Herbal Medicinal and Aromatic Plants,
- Bio-Technology sector,
- Information Technology related activities.
- Hospitality industry and Tourism, etc.

The opening up Border Trade with the neighboring countries of the state along with "Act East Policy" of the government are expected to bring economic boom and offer investment opportunities to the people of Assam. The development of Border trade Center at Sutarkhandi and Mancachar will open new horizon of industrial development of the state.

The State Profile suggests a good number of MSME enterprises based on local resources and demand of the state, which if taken up in right earnest with the co-operation of various development agencies, will certainly solve unemployment related problem of the State.

Resources

Natural Resources:

2.1 Oil and Natural Gas is one of the major minerals of Assam. Crude Oil reserve is estimated at over 1.3 billion tonnes and Natural Gas is estimated at 156 billion cu mtrs. The state accounts for about 15% of India's crude output. The wells at Digboi, Duliajan, Sivasagar, Moran , etc produce Natural Gas accounting for about 50% of India's total Onshore production, which may be used as feedstock for production of Fertilizers, Electricity, Petrochemicals and also as fuel in the industries. Assam Gas Cracker Project (Brahmaputra Cracker and Polymer Ltd), under implementation, for production of HDPE/LLDPE and Polypropylene, is based on resources available in Assam. The project will supply huge intermediate feedstock for further processing in a host of downstream polymer units in Assam.

Limestone, with reserves of about 700 million tonnes, is one of the most important mineral, available in various grades. The China clay of Karbi- Anglong district is a vital input for the Ceramic industries.

Coal reserves account for more than 320 million tonnes. The Coal found in upper Assam and the Central Assam highland has high sulphur content, high volatile matter content, high calorific value and low ash content.

Deposits of stone like Granite, estimated to be more than a billion Cubic Meters are available in various shades and colours and have a huge domestic as well as Export market.

2.2 Forest Resources:

Assam has a rich Forest cover encompassing nearly a quarter of its land mass, out of which roughly half of the forest is reserved forest. Blessed with plentiful rainfall, the forests are a reserve of commercially useful produces like timber, bamboo, stone, etc. These products in turn feed a variety of units producing wood based products.

Bamboo, which is the fastest growing plant and generates large bio-mass, holds the potential to replace wood on many grounds. India is 2nd largest in Bamboo resources in the world, next only to China. The North Eastern region holds about 65% of the country's total estimated stock, which is around 90 million tonnes.

2.3 Medicinal & Aromatic Plant:

With its vast hills and forests, Assam is the home of a variety of Medicinal herbs and plants. About 300 types of Medicinal herbs and plants are known to exist in abundance in the State. It is estimated that only 5- 10% of the Plants and Herbs are commercially cultivated for extraction purposes and hence there is a lot of potential in this sector.

SOURCE:- The Commissionerate of Industries & Commerce, Government of Assam, Bamuni Maidan, Guwahati - 781 021.

From the table it can be observed that Kamrup district has largest concentration of MSMEs units followed by Dibrugarh, Nagaon, Sibsagar districts respectively. After enactment of MSME Development Act, 2006 its implementation from October, 2006 the term “ Industry” has been replaced by “ Enterprise” which covers wide range of economic activity and services. Therefore the results of Economic Census 1998 & 2005 conducted by Central Statisical Organization may give light the number of MSMEs both in manufacturing and service sector in the state. The following tables show the key results of Economic Censuses 1998 &2005 in respect of Assam.

CHAPTER- VII

Prospective Industries

Assam is endowed with vast resources that are essential for industrial development. Some of the resources are being industrially exploited and others are yet to be tapped in.

Surplus material resources :

It is difficult to estimate which resources are surplus and how much. The state is yet to attain self-sufficiency in food grains. Yet there are some agricultural products, which can be exploited by the industrial sector. The horticultural production like ginger, orange, pineapple, banana, jackfruits offers opportunities for commercial exploitation. The supply of forest resources is decreasing day by day due to various environmental measures and protection extended by Government. But, demand for industrial products from forest resources still increasing day by day. The livestock resources of Assam provide good scope for exploitation by industrial sector. There are many virgin areas provided by forest resources to be exploited by industrial sector in Assam. The vast mineral resources also provide good scopes for industrial production.

As discussed in the Chapter of Resources there is immense potential for development of MSMEs based on tourism related activities. The trend of traffic of tourist to Assam also shows increase of leaps and bounds in recent years.

The New Industrial policy, 2014 of Government of Assam identifies following Potential areas for promotion and development:

- Food processing and Agro based Industries
- Mineral based industries
- Bamboo based industries
- Extraction and Value Addition of Herbal Medicinal and Aromatic Plants,
- Bio-Technology sector,
- Information Technology related activities.
- Hospitality industry and Tourism, etc.
